In his paper of last Thursday he slings billingsgate at his unnamed foe in an awful brave(?) way. The general comment is that "Chapman don't know enough to keep his mouth shut when he's got his belly full."

A CREAMERY is valuable to the farmer in many ways. It furnishes a ready market for his milk at all seasons; lessens the labor of caring for the product of his cows; insures a greater income, and teaches him to study the merits of his cattle and the best feed formilk producing purposes. It teaches him to give more thought to his busines; to depend less upon the vagaries of seasons and more upon his own judgement. It forces cleanliness, thrift, promptness and care of valuable stock, and compensates him well for all his efforts.

BRO. TOWNSLEY thinks "it's a good thing to buck monopolies with convicts." Did it never occur to him that it might be a good thing to buck monopolists with the free American ballot? Doubtless his political faith has not taught him so, seeing that the said monopolists are the outgrowth of republican high tariff. If binding twine can be manufactured and sold at a profit for 111 cents, why in the name of all that is good is it necessary to "protect" a few manufacturers so that 17 to 20 cents?

At Mr. Coss', however, we were shown the chinch bugs in all their glory, as they lay at the roots of wheat and deposited their eggs. From all we could learn there are many of the pests in the wheat, but it is not feared they will do any material damage unless a long dry spell permits the eggs to hatch out and the young bugs to mature and take the 932 acres in crops as reported by the wheat while it is yet in the milk. Some township assessors, whose returns were apprehensions are also felt that the made to the county clerk not later than young bugs may hurt the corn, even if March 1, and by him sent in to the board young bugs may hurt the corn, even if March 1, and by him sent in to the board pain attending it, but greatly diminishes wheat escapes, unless we have sufficient of agriculture, there are thousands of the danger of life of both mother and rain to kill them off. The Size of Kansas.

Much has been said and written of the size of Kansas, and much more might be said before a true idea of its vastness is generally obtained. Eighty two thousand square miles is a vast expanse of territory, but just how large we can hardly comprehend. Suppose we could combine the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massa chusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia into one state; Kansas would contain them all, and still have coom enough for another Rhode Island. Kansas is larger than any southern tate except Texas, and exceeds in size both the Virginias. It is almost as large as the combined areas of North

Ohio and Indiana together.

If size alone were sufficient, Kansai could take its place among the first-class powers of earth. England and Scotland together are smaller than Kansas, while Wales, Ireland, Switzerland, the Netherlands, and Belgium added together will not equal it in size. Or, we might aid Denmark, Andorra, Portugal, San Marrino, and enough territory to make a Kansas.

Turkey in Europe is not as large as this state, and Roumania, Servia, and Montenegro combined do not equal it.

It exceeds in size the great islands of Celebes, Java, or the Moluccas, and would make more than a dozen Polynesias if cut up into little islands and sowed broadcast in the ocean.

Butler county alone is larger than Rhode Island or the whole of the French possessions in the West Indies, and Atchison county equals the whole

A Model Kitchen.

It is possible nowadays, says an authority, by spending money lavishly, so to build a kitchen that the most ingenious of servants cannot keep it waste upon her unappreciative soul the costly tiles with which one lines the bath-room, but may substitute for them the glazed bricks that are as them the glazed bricks that are as highly polished, and that will make the floor, the chimney, the walls, if desired, and even the ceiling, as easy to clean as a breakfast plate. Once built, no whitewasher and no painter would be needed for such a room, no smoke need cling to its walls for an instant, and no odor of cooking would be perceptable in it, even if it were used for generations. And the temperature of such a room need not reach the great height unavoidable with plastered walls, which permit the plastered walls, which permit the warmth of the chimney to be perceptible through their surface, and thus both the good health and good temper of the cook would be maintained. As for coloring, such a kitchen may be precisely what one pleases, for the bricks are made of all hues, and they may be laid in patterns or in wide surfaces of one tint from floor to ceiling. Lastly, as such a room would be surfaces of one tint from floor to ceil-ing. Lastly, as such a room would be fireproof, a sliding or swinging iron door would so isolate it that no kerosene quickened fire and no careless up-setting of lard could bring destruction to the room itself of which a little water would not clear it.—Scientific
